His ability to do 360 degree research results in actionable insights that clients can use to make more informed decisions.

Simon D'ortenzio also works with clients to help them understand exit strategy possibilities and how to maximise their enterprise value.

He also investigates acquisition opportunities across a broad range of industries to ensure clients have all of the insights they need to make a successful purchase. This includes deal structures and business valuations.

Simon regularly consults to the Boards of our clients regarding transaction opportunities, and growth and strategic planning.

At BG Private, he leads a small team of Associates and is a key driver behind the growth of these divisions.
